FOREWORD

ALAPE! This name given to the San Pasqual Valley by the San Luis Rey Indians means in their language "looking up." The Indians used this term because as they roamed the valley floor, they were inspired to look upward to the surrounding hills and the blue beyond.

We, as Christian young people, should keep our minds on the nobler things of life and should turn our eyes heavenward as we look forward and upward in anticipation of our Lord's return. We should be such an influence for our Master that those around will look up with us to better and higher ideals.

We have tried to record for you in picture and word the happy days which are now the history of the first year of the San Pasqual Academy. The events of these days have helped many potential Advent leaders of tomorrow on their pathway toward the Kingdom. We hope you enjoy reviewing this year with us.

DEDICATION

In grateful appreciation . . .

. . . for your sincere spirit of determination in the pioneering of this academy,

. . . for your time which has been devoted without hesitation to thoughtful counsel and Christian guidance,

. . . for your constant friendliness and undying interest in every phase of our school activities,

. . . we sincerely dedicate this annual to

Message from the Chairman of the Board

Several years ago the Executive Committee of the Southeastern California Conference and the Educational Department began to plan for a boarding academy in Southeastern California. This boarding academy was to be a place where young men and women should all learn to work at some useful occupation. Agriculture was to be the ABC of their education and industrial training of different types was to form a very active part of their school curriculum. It was the plan of the founders of this academy to follow the blueprint as outlined to us by the servant of the Lord for our educational work. Several buildings have already been constructed and the school has been in operation since September of 1949.

The original ranch consisted of one hundred acres. In order to provide additional work for students, the Nelson ranch adjoining our academy on the north was purchased, adding another fifty acres. At a recent Board meeting the June Chafe ranch, adjoining our property on the south and west was purchased. This ranch consists of ninety-three acres with about thirty acres in citrus and deciduous fruits. We feel that this additional land will be a real blessing in providing work for our students so that they can help defray the expenses of their education as well as provide housing facilities for the faculty.

We expect additional housing facilities for teachers and a home economics and science building with additional classrooms to be erected in time for the opening of school this Fall. Just as soon as funds permit, the library, music building, and an assembly hall will be erected, and plans are under way for the construction of a chapel to serve as a church home for the students as well as the people of the community.

The Board is anxious that this school shall be a great blessing to the young people of our conference in fitting them for their life's work and in preparing them for a place in God's kingdom. Your support is anticipated and appreciated.

Principal's Message

The passing of the first school year of San Pasqual Academy marks the beginning of a new emphasis in Christian education in the West and may well extend to every part of the world. God's abundant blessings have obviously attended our efforts to renew His plan of providing a wider training for the youth destined to do an important work during the closing days of the world's history.

The constituency of the Southeastern California Conference and its leadership are to be commended for its faith and farsightedness in assuming the responsibility of pioneering a return to true education. That there was and still is a heartfelt need for such training was manifested by the immediate and extensive response in the form of inquiries and applications for admission. The school has operated at full capacity since its doors were opened and from present indications our dormitory facilities will be wholly inadequate for another year. It has been gratifying to learn by experiment that God's biddings are enablings and that He rewards the faith of His believers with success in their efforts to follow the instructions laid out for them.

Both the students and their parents have entered into the spirit of this new enterprise in a most commendable manner, making possible the accomplishment of our objectives to a marked degree. An outstanding faculty blessed with a sincere devotion to a common cause, by its untiring and self-sacrificing efforts, made an inestimable contribution to the cause of Christian education as it has been interpreted at San Pasqual Academy.

With the foregoing considerations in mind it is only natural to conclude that true education is coming into its own and that the future training of our youth will be both adequate and complete.

CLASSES

As students go from class to class they gain knowledge to be used in the service of their Master and of their fellowmen. They obtain a knowledge of the Bible as the Word of God and learn obedience and its principles. In their minds is instilled a greater reverence for Christ. They find in this valley a haven of refuge in beautiful, natural surroundings where tempted and tried young people can develop strong Christian characters.

IN ACTION

San Pasqual Academy is endeavoring to follow the Plan of the School of the Prophets. Here, in addition to the full pre-professional curriculum, students may obtain formal instruction in agricultural, mechanical, home economics, and commercial fields. It is the aim of this school that each graduate will be properly and efficiently trained in at least one vocation.

Vocational Activities

VOCATIONAL

In order for the youth of today to successfully face the problems of life it has been rightly reasoned that their physical as well as their mental and spiritual powers should be developed.

Each day the students work with and under the supervision of consecrated faculty members at some form of manual labor. By working a student may help defray the expenses of gaining an education but in addition he is able to gain real knowledge of a vocation, and as they work together a bond of close friendship is created between teachers and students.

ACTIVITIES

By student labor fruits, berries, and vegetables are produced for canning and daily use in the school cafeteria. The dairy furnishes an abundance of rich cream and milk and the poultry farm provides an adequate supply of eggs for student and faculty consumption. In addition to supplying local needs much of this produce is sold commercially.

Students also perform necessary maintenance, culinary, and laundry duties that make for smooth operation of a successful school.

AFTERWORD

The annual staff wishes to express its grateful appreciation to the faculty, students, and business friends for their cooperation in helping to prepare this yearbook.

We hope that you have enjoyed the first edition of the ALAPE and that you will ever keep in mind the meaning of this name. It is our desire that by what you have seen on these pages you will be inspired to keep "looking up."
